Sexual Violence Prevention Association

Letter From Our CEO

As we look back on this year, I am filled with both profound gratitude and a renewed sense of urgency. I am deeply appreciative of our team, volunteers, partners, and donors. Thank you for standing with us during the most challenging year we've faced.

Emboldened high-profile rapists, inflammatory rhetoric, and rising sexism, racism, homophobia, and transphobia, are causing increased sexual violence. New forms of digital abuse, like deepfake pornography and AI chatbot harassment, are intensifying this crisis. The USSC recorded a 62.5% rise between 2020 and 2024, bringing rates higher than they were pre-COVID.

Government funding for sexual violence has been slashed by states and the administration. Further, because of our unwavering support for trans+ people, immigrants, and other targeted communities, we have faced direct financial retaliation from the federal government and large funders. Significant loss of funding, paired with increased need, has put us in a dire position.

Despite these barriers, we have achieved extraordinary victories! We helped pass multiple bills preventing sexual violence across the country. Our work reached courts, campuses, companies, and Congress. We educated over half a million people, strengthened hundreds of institutions, and trained 5,625 activists and organizers.

None of this would have been possible without our team and our partners. I want to especially thank HEART and FORGE for their courage and collaboration. They continue to work to protect marginalized survivors alongside us despite facing funding cuts and legislative threats.

Finally, to our donors: you are the backbone of this organization. Over 90% of our budget comes from individual donations. With the loss of major grants, your support is more critical now than ever. This year, we need larger, sustained donations to meet the increasing need and to withstand the ongoing defunding and silencing.

Thank you for believing in systemic change, in justice, and in the power of collective action. Together, we will keep fighting to prevent sexual violence.

Omny Miranda Martone
Founder and CEO

About Us

Mission: The Sexual Violence Prevention Association (SVPA) is the first and only national nonprofit dedicated to preventing sexual violence systemically. For more information, watch our TEDx Talk or check out our website.

Personal

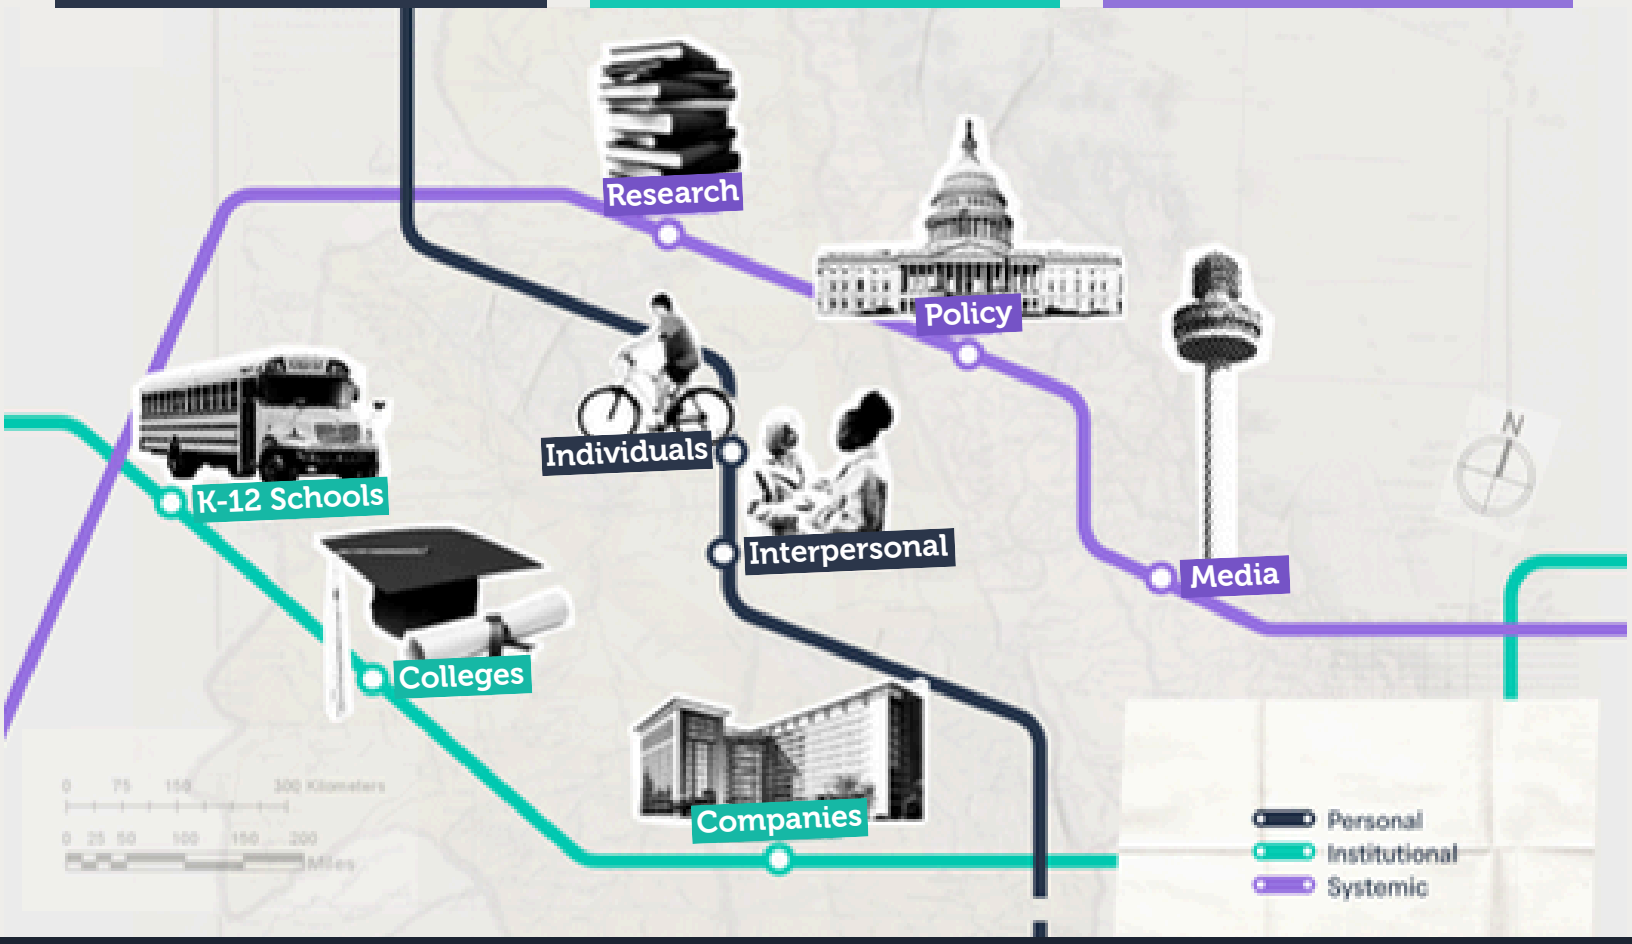

Educating individuals about consent, healthy boundaries, rape culture, bystander intervention, and more. Providing education for parents, guardians, and bystanders.

Institutional

Empowering stakeholders within K-12 schools, colleges, and companies to prevent sexual violence through institutional policies, programs, and practices.

Systemic

Working with media to better address and portray sexual violence, researching effective prevention strategies, and advocating for impactful legislation.

Policy Advocacy

Effective legislation at the local, state, and national level is vital for preventing sexual violence. Policy must hold colleges, companies, and K-12 schools responsible for implementing effective prevention practices. Legislation must also fund research, require data collection, and regulate media coverage.

66 Total Policy Actions

Take It Down Act Passed

The SVPA helped write and advocate for the Take It Down Act, which was signed into law in May. This landmark, bipartisan legislation combats digital sexual violence by requiring online platforms to swiftly remove non-consensual explicit materials, preventing harm and protecting survivors nationwide.

Three Prevention Bills Passed

The SVPA advocated for three federal bills that were signed into law by President Biden in January. The Jenna Quinn Law, which funds nationwide child sexual abuse prevention education; the Stop Campus Hazing Act, which strengthens reporting and prevention of hazing-related sexual violence on college campuses; and the Stop Institutional Child Abuse Act, which establishes oversight and accountability to protect youth and prevent sexual abuse in residential programs.

Policy Continued

UN Cybercrime Convention

After five years of negotiation, the UN Convention Against Cybercrimes was adopted with 72 countries signing on in October. The SVPA has been advocating for the treaty for years. In the past year, we were invited to speak with the White House, DOJ, UN delegates, and federal agencies, to highlight the convention's critical role in preventing digital sexual violence worldwide.

Congressional Testimony

Omny Miranda Martone submitted written testimony to the Senate Judiciary Committee for the "Examining the Harm of AI Chatbots" hearing. Martone detailed how AI chatbots sexually harass and exploit children, outlined systemic platform harms, and recommended safeguards and legislative strategies to prevent AI-facilitated sexual violence.

Congressional Day of Action

The SVPA joined RAINN's Congressional Day of Action, where 21 survivor advocates and 12 hotline volunteers met with 42 Senators and Representatives to push critical legislation. Omny Miranda Martone, our Founder and CEO, led one of the survivor groups to seven hill offices and a congressional hearing for bills to support survivors and prevent sexual violence.

Epstein Files Transparency & Survivor Justice

We are advocating for transparency, justice, and systemic change in the Epstein and Maxwell case. We've endorsed the Epstein Files Transparency Act, met with congressional offices, and worked with Epstein survivors. We joined the press conference at the Capitol demanding the release of the files. Our efforts go beyond just transparency, advocating for survivor justice, institutional accountability, and systemic change to prevent harms of this scale in the future.

Preventing Abusers from Taking Office

The SVPA intervened in multiple Trump Administration nominations to prevent perpetrators from taking office. We opposed Linda McMahon for Secretary of Education because she covered up a sex trafficking ring. We urged Congress to reopen Brett Kavanaugh's Supreme Court nomination due to his perpetration of rape. Our advocacy directly contributed to the rescinding of David Weldon's nomination for the Center for Disease Control due to his beliefs about sexual violence and reproductive health. Our advocacy also resulted in the rescinding of Matt Gaetz's nomination for Attorney General due to his perpetration of pedophilia and sex trafficking.

Our Programs

The SVPA has numerous programs for preventing sexual violence. Our programs range from toolkits and trainings for K-12 students to international initiatives with Big Tech companies around the world. All of our programs aim to prevent sexual violence systemically by empowering individual or institutions to take action.

11 Total Programs

Preventing Strip & Cavity Searches

Strip and cavity searches are a form of state-sanctioned sexual violence. They are invasive violations of consent and autonomy that are ineffective at catching contraband, a majority of which enters through staff. We successfully opposed a bill in Montana allowing correctional facilities to strip search anyone held for 12 hours. Our advocacy resulted in the bill being vetoed, preventing hundreds of thousands of strip searches. We also spoke against harmful practices in Denver, where a prison commander used strip searching footage for sexual gratification. In San Francisco, we supported the introduction of body scanners, only requiring a strip search if there is a positive read. We are advocating for other facilities to adopt similar prevention programs.

Big Tech Preventing Digital Sexual Violence

We worked with several federal agencies, Congress, Google, Meta, Apple, Microsoft, TikTok, and more to prevent digital sexual violence. We engaged Meta to improve their content moderation policies, including those permitting their product to engage in pedophilia. We filed a formal request to state and federal regulators to investigate Elon Musks, xAI for perpetuating digital sexual violence. We are also active members of the Multistakeholder Working Group, collaborating with platforms to embed safeguards and prevention measures.

Our Programs

Policy Map Updates

We have updated our Policy Map and SVPA Scores, assessing the quantity and quality of sexual violence prevention legislation in all 50 states. This is vitally important this year, as many federal protections and regulations have been repealed or removed. The map and scores empower state legislators, advocates, nonprofits, and everyday people to take action.

Department of Education Partnership & Resources

The SVPA worked closely with the Department of Education (ED) to strengthen prevention and response to sexual violence in schools. We contributed to the ED's joint task force recommendations on sexual and dating violence. We also collaborated with the ED to release a new resource for students, families, and schools, expanding protections and prevention for digital sexual violence.

Department of Health and Human Services Partnership

The SVPA partnered with HHS to address sexual violence as a public health issue. We served as an expert consultant for the Office on Trafficking in Persons' Look Beneath the Surface campaign, shaping strategies on technology-facilitated abuse. We also spoke at HHS's listening session on the impacts of image-based sexual abuse, informing survivor-centered prevention and care approaches.

United Nations Partnership & Resources

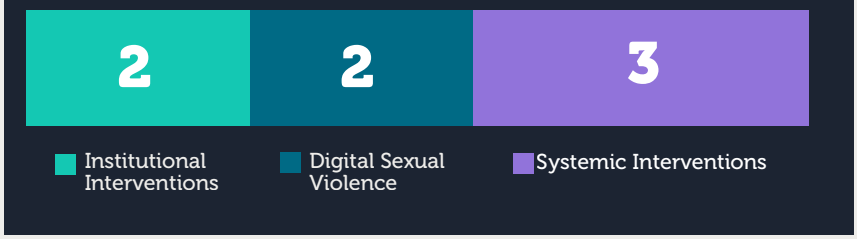

The SVPA collaborated with the United Nations to strengthen global prevention of sexual violence. We joined an open letter to world ministers at the First Global Ministerial Conference on Ending Violence Against Children, urging urgent state action to end sexual violence in education. Additionally, we contributed to UN Women's ACT on the Shared Advocacy Agenda, helping develop coordinated strategies to eliminate violence against women and girls worldwide.

Research

Research is vital for creating, assessing, and implementing effective strategies, practices, and policies for preventing sexual violence. Our research informs our programs, legislative advocacy, and strategic direction.

7 Total Research Projects

Workplace Sexual Violence Framework

The SVPA published the Workplace Sexual Violence Framework, a groundbreaking resource addressing all forms of sexual violence in the workplace—including those often overlooked. The framework identifies harm between managers, employees, customers, clients, and other stakeholders, providing a comprehensive approach to recognize and prevent this pervasive issue while guiding employers to take meaningful action toward safer, more accountable workplaces.

Scholarly Research on Digital Sexual Violence

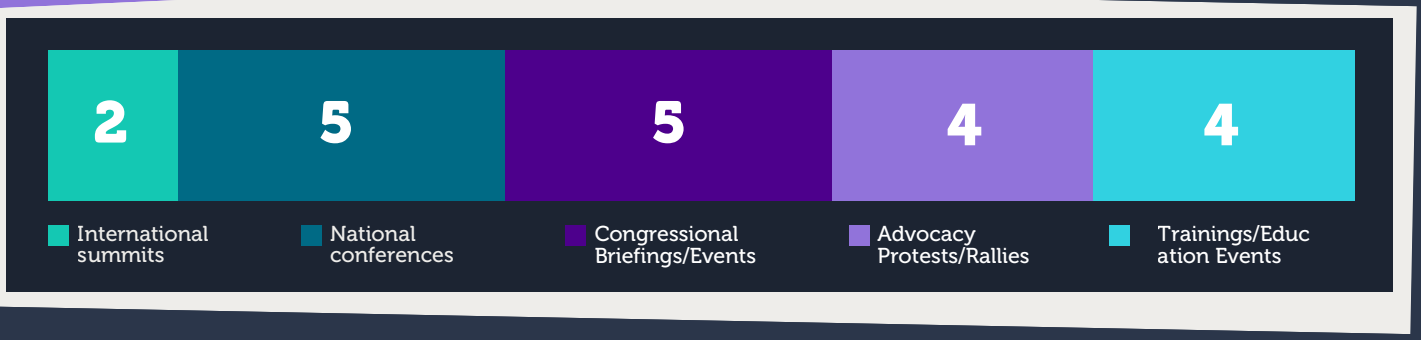

The SVPA's work has been cited in multiple scholarly publications addressing technology-facilitated sexual violence. Exposing Limitations in Technical Governance of AI-Generated Non-Consensual Intimate Images of Adults found weak AI governance enables the creation and spread of AI-generated explicit materials ("deepfake pornography") and calls for survivor-centered regulation. Communication in the Digital Age: The Bots Trap found AI and bots are transforming human communication and enabling manipulation and harm in digital spaces.

SORVO Palestine

The SVPA published SORVO: Israel, Zionist Entities, & Palestine, exposing how sexual violence and propaganda are used to shape public perception and international policy. Using our SORVO framework, the report identifies how Israel commits mass sexual violence against Palestinians and denies it while falsely claiming Palestinians are committing mass sexual violence. This false narrative is repeated in political speeches, media coverage, and policy debates to justify weapons, genocide, and mass civilian casualties. We hosted a webinar with HEART To Grow examining this propaganda and its role in justifying oppression and violence against Palestinians.

Conferences & Briefings

20 Total Events

Empowered Voices Summit at the Capitol

Our Founder and CEO, Omny Miranda Martone, spoke at Encode AI's Empowering Voices Summit at the Capitol alongside Senator Dick Durbin. Martone highlighted the harms of deepfake pornography and the need for systemic prevention legislation. They shared the SVPA's Prevention Blueprint and 5 R's of Digital Bystander Intervention.

Survivor Bill of Rights Summit

Omny Miranda Martone, a survivor of digital sexual violence, joined 28 survivor leaders from 10 countries in Washington, D.C. for a historic three-day summit to address image-based sexual violence. Together, participants developed global recommendations for legislative reform, technological innovation, and advocacy to combat digital sexual violence.

DC Dyke March Speech

Omny Miranda Martone spoke at DC Dyke March, addressing the weaponization of sexual violence against marginalized communities. They highlighted SORVO, historic patterns of oppression, and the ongoing targeting of LGBTQ+ people, immigrants, and Palestinians, emphasizing how sexual violence and false accusations are used to justify oppression and fascist policies.

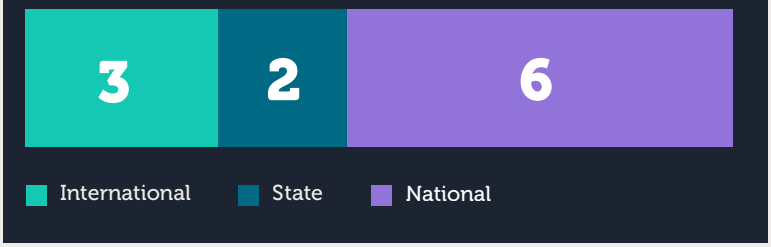

Coalitions & Groups

The SVPA has been invited to join several coalitions, groups, and committees. We work with our peers, partners, and stakeholders to advocate for and amplify necessary actions for preventing sexual violence systemically.

11 Total Groups

Gender Equality Coalition

We have been part of the Gender Equity Coalition (GEC) for three years. GEC consists of over 115 organizations dedicated to gender equity, reproductive rights, domestic violence, and sexual violence. This year, we urged Congress to confirm all pending justices before the administration change. We sent the new administration our policy priorities, including ending gender-based violence. We fought to protect the Department of Education from cuts, including Title IX. Lastly, we urged Congress to protect the reproductive rights of veterans, including survivors.

Survivors4JusticeReform & #SurvivorsForAbolition

Now in its third year, the SVPA's SurvivorsForAbolition initiative continues to elevate survivor voices calling for the abolition of punitive systems and the creation of community-based, prevention-centered responses. This year, the SVPA also joined the newly formed Survivors for Justice Reform (S4JR), a global survivor-led coalition advancing restorative and transformative justice rooted in healing, equity, and systemic change.

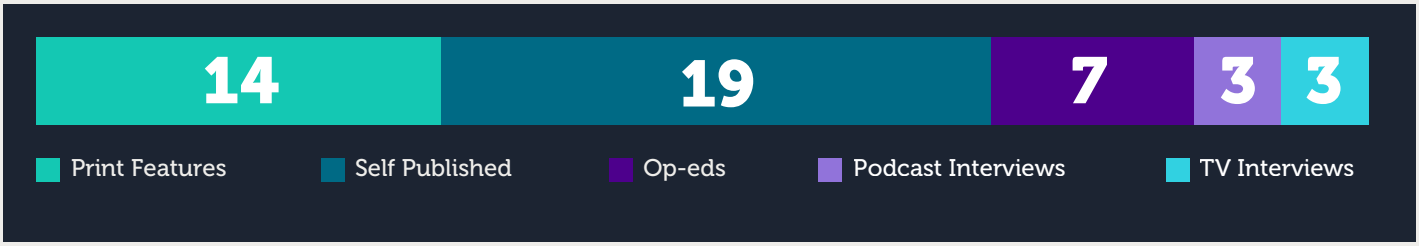

AI Moratorium Coalition

We joined the Encode AI's Moratorium Coalition to advocate against a state artificial intelligence (AI) moratorium, which would have banned states from enforcing existing legislation or passing new legislation governing AI for 10 years. This would have prevented states from addressing digital sexual violence. We joined two letters to Congress, one on child safety and the other on sexual violence prevention. Due to our advocacy, the Senate voted 99-1 to remove the moratorium.

Looking to Next Year

Funding Focus

Next year, we are focused on significantly increasing funding from donors and philanthropists. Government grants for sexual violence have been slashed. The few remaining grants are inaccessible to us due to retaliation for our advocacy (including the Epstein Files Transparency Act and exposing ICE sexual harassment.) We also faced cuts from major foundations for standing with trans+ people, immigrants, and other targeted communities. We plan to expand our community-funding model by strengthening our individual donor base. This allows us to uphold our values without fear of retaliation.

Systemic Change Shifts

In 2026, we are shifting and intensifying our focus on systemic change. Specifically, we plan to create and publish more system frameworks and groundbreaking research. We are also going to increase our work on broad public education with campaigns and media initiatives to shift social norms and counteract rape culture.

Safety & Health

Unfortunately, the safety and health of our team members and community is under threat. In 2026, one of our priorities is to implement improved safety precautions and to continue direct support to our team and community.

Thank You

Thank you to everyone who makes our work possible! We are deeply grateful to our current and former team members, volunteers, board members, interns, and co-ops. We appreciate our partners and supporting organizations. Lastly, we appreciate all of our donors. Our impact would not be possible without you!

Please consider donating!

Our work is proven to be effective at preventing sexual violence. However, we need your help. This year the need for our work has increased and, simultaneously, our funding has been cut. We need your support to continue our impactful work in 2026.
